

Idempotent Processor

Application functions detect duplicate messages and inconsistent data or are designed to be immune to these conditions.

How can an application component cope with message duplicates or data inconsistencies that could lead to duplicate function execution?

